SEEDLINGS ARE AVAILABLE FOR REFORESTATION

Information of interest to all prospective planters of state trees is contained in the following statement by District Forester W. H. Smith of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, Warren.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters does not distribute trees to private planters for use as Christmas trees or for ornamental purposes, but does sell seedlings and transplants to be planted for wood products. Trees can be ordered now for spring planting. The following seedlings and transplants will be available in the spring of 1942: three-year-old seedlings—red pine, white pine, Norway spruce, white spruce; two-year-old seedlings—Scotch pine, banks pine, Jersey pine, pitch pine, Japanese larch; one-year-old seedlings—black locust, black walnut and transplants—red pine, white pine, Norway spruce, white spruce.

"The department recommends spring planting in preference to fall planting, because trees planted in the fall are liable to be heaved by the frost they are more likely to be injured by the wind, thus causing winter-killing, and on wet or heavy soils their roots are more subject to decay.

"Trees will be received in the order in which applications are received, until the available supply of each species has been exhausted. It is not too early now to order trees for planting in the spring of 1942. A large number of 1942 orders are already on file. Orders for less than the minimum of 1,000 trees, in lots of 500 of each kind are not acceptable. The price per thousand trees is $2.00.

Closed Session of Committee on Ship Arming nationalism" rather than isolationism.

It will be several days before the neutrality act revision reaches the senate floor for full dress debate, and the legislative outlook was complicated by a new, unimpeachable—low casualty list of missing and injured which the U. S. destroyer Kearny reported last night after surviving a torpedo attack by a submarine "undoubtedly German" in the north Atlantic near Iceland.

There were no immediate forecasts as how these navy losses would affect the senate's present attitude toward neutrality act revision.

The senate foreign relations committee started formal consideration of the revision question today, taking up procedure on the house-approved legislation which would knock out the act's present prohibition against the arming of American merchant ships.

The ship-arming measure, passed on a house vote of 250 to 135 last week, is only one of the steps adopted by Chairman Connally, (D-Tex.) and other members of the foreign relations committee, "to prevent the provision which now prevents American vessels from entering belligerent ports or designated combat areas."

Connally has said, however, that it "not be more expeditious to pass the ship-arming bill at once and then take up additional proposals."

Hull Characterizes Incident as Typical Nazi Intimidation

subsequently acknowledged it was a U-boat which missed the destroyer with two torpedoes. Apparently the submarine, like the Greek seaplane, was in that shooting episode.

Nazi authorities thus far have said they have received no word from any German ship about the Kearny. Going a step farther, the German radio has charged that the Kearny incident was purely a "rumor" or "hoax" by administration officials to inflame the nation against the Reich.

The assumption here was that the Navy believed it possessed positive proof of the submarine's nationality, but there was no hint how it was obtained. One conjecture was that some of the Kearny's crew caught a glimpse of the undersea boat before or during the engagement, but the opportunity for such observation is usually remote under the circumstances indicated.

In its supplementary announcement of the incident the Navy, for the first time since the outbreak of the European war, found itself using the long since familiar language of British admiralty communications: "The next of kin of the missing x x x have been notified."

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) said he would suggest to Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the naval committee that it investigate the circumstances of the attack on the Kearny and ask the Navy Department for details. The navy furnished such a report on the Greek incident.

Senator Nye (R-N.D.), author of a resolution which asked an investigation of the Greek encounter, told reporters he considered it a "essential that congress be given full information about the Kearny attack as soon as the Navy Department could obtain it."

PRESBYTERIANS INAUGURATE AN EXPANSION PLAN

The First Presbyterian church embarks this week upon a program of general church advance, which in its initial phase will extend through the months of November and December, with an intensive effort towards greater attendance and loyalty in all aspects of the church life and the spiritual expansion of the individual members. The program as a whole looks forward immediately to the 120th anniversary of the local church in 1942, as well as a projected five-year-plan to continue through to the 125th milestone of the church's founding in 1947.

To assist in this ambitious undertaking the officers of the church have invited Dr. Albert F. McGarrath, of Grove City, Pa., nationally known "church counselor" and Miss Ethel Johnson, of Passaic, N. J., recognized authority on church organization and promotion to conduct the initial phase and assist the various church groups in general plans to be projected over the coming several years.

It is interesting to note that among the many hundreds of churches, both Presbyterian and of other denominations, who have successfully utilized the services of Dr. McGarrath and Miss Johnson for similar ambitious programs, a notable example was that of the Rochester Presbyterian church during the pastorate of the Rev. Raymond M. Kistler, in a highly successful six-year program which was climaxed with that church's bi-centennial to which church Rev. Kistler went following his pastorate here, and from which he resigned to become president of Beaver College.

There will be a congregational dinner-conference at 6:30 this evening in the newly-decorated and furnished dining room, for which there will be no charge, but a free-will offering will be made. At this time the entire project will be thoroughly discussed in roundtable fashion, various committees announced, and activities initiated.

Dr. McGarrath spoke at the morning service Sunday on "Our Church and Its Future" and met during the afternoon with the general or "steering committee" which formally accepted a plan in general outline, and defined the chief objectives, set forth sevenfold as follows: 1. Attendance increase for worship services and all organizations over the next two months of over 50%. 2. Brotherly spirit fostered more diligently in and through all groups and organizations. 3. Church school increasingly effective as to attendance, enrollment and home cooperation. 4. Devotional habits developed by individuals, families, groups. 5. Every member increasingly faithful to Christ, to His truth and to His church. 6. Finances and equipment put on a more adequate basis. 7. Growth in grace, in usefulness and in numbers.

The roster of the steering committee includes: David W. Cross, general chairman; Donald McComas, Kenneth Davis, Harry Conarro, George Craft, Brackett Ayers, Raymond Steber, Mrs. H. P. Stone, Mrs. Moss Conolly, Donald Murchap, Franklin Hoff, Mrs. Vance Weld, and Mrs. Harold Banghart.

Fall Conference of Northwest District Phalanx Held Here

The Northwest District Phalanx Fraternity held its fall conference at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday, with 30 delegates from Warren, Bradford, Oil City, Erie, Meadville and Cory.

The session was opened with a welcome by Gordon Gerould and worship service conducted by Jack Cogswell and Robert Schatzle.

During the business meeting, in charge of Robert Whitehill, dispirited, Paul Graber, of Meadville, was elected district secretary.

Speakers for the afternoon were Rev. J. A. Davidson, Baptist pastor, on "The Tragedy of Stupidity," and M. H. Deardorff on "Indian Lore."

CHURCH REVIVALS

SALVATION ARMY
The weekend evangelistic services being conducted in the Salvation Army Citadel were well attended and successful in objectives attained. Brigadier Bristow referred to the 6,000 children who are refugees in Canada and the estimated number drowned in the Atlantic crossing, introductory to a gripping message at Sunday night's meeting. The sermon subject was "The Mission of Christ" and was based upon the 22nd chapter of Revelations. The band played a selection, "Beautiful Christ," as arranged by J. Harold Gustafson, preceding the message. Congregational singing was especially good and the theme song, "Jesus, I Come," was given with much fervor.

There will be no meeting this evening, but the series will continue nightly at 7:30 o'clock through the remainder of the week. All are invited to attend.

We invite the public to consult us at any time regarding the cost of our modern services.

ARMY MAN WELL KNOWN HERE IS MAJOR GENERAL

Word has been received here that President Roosevelt has elevated Brigadier General Dawson Olmstead to Chief Signal Officer in the United States army, with the rank of Major General. Although Major General Olmstead is a former Corry resident, he is well known to many in Warren because of the fact that members of his family at one time resided here.

Along with word of his appointment to the higher rank comes orders that he is transferred from Fort Monmouth, N. J., to Washington, D. C. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Dawson Olmstead, formerly of this city, is also with him in Washington.

The general was born at Corry where he attended public schools. He was graduated from West Point in 1906 and only a year ago became a brigadier in the army. For the past three years he has been in command of the chief signal depot at Fort Monmouth, but has been on detail in Washington for several months. His new post places him in command of the entire Signal Corps organization of the United States Army.

Announcement of his promotion was received with delight and satisfaction by his friends and acquaintances in Warren, as well as throughout this section.

Bundles for Britain Branch Gives Report of First Year's Activities

One year has now passed since the Warren Branch of Bundles for Britain was organized, and the executive committee, recognizing the keen interest of the citizens of Warren who have so generously supported this most worthy cause, in what has been accomplished through the efforts of the local organization during its first year, has prepared a report of the actual amount of money and supplies which have been sent to the New York headquarters to be shipped to the war sufferers of Great Britain. The list follows:

In the local work room of the Warren Bundles Chapter totaled 1,476 articles: 6 cartons containing medicine valued at $600; 4 cartons containing surgical instruments valued at $1,000; 6 blood transfusion units; 5 portable cots.

The treasurer's report for the chapter gives a condensed summary of operations from date of organization to October 14, 1941, as follows:

Gross receipts from all sources	$4,916.40
Disbursements:
Purchase of wool yarn	$2,565.41
Purchase of afghan yarn	204.57
Purchase of new clothing	256.36
Remitted to national headquarters for purchase of 6 blood transfusion units and 5 portable cots	400.00
Remitted to national headquarters for bombed hospital fund	500.00
Freight on shipments of clothing to national headquarters	174.68
Balance on hand October 15th, 1941	$ 240.41

Many fears have been expressed that much clothing and materials have not safely reached their destination because of frequent losses of merchant vessels on the Atlantic during recent months, but to all concerned it will be gratifying news that according to a recent report from the New York headquarters, Bundles for Britain, out of the total shipments from all 1,105 branches of the organization throughout the United States, less than 2% could not be accounted for.

With the approach of winter, the needs of recent months among the British have increased. Therefore it is important that the previous efforts of the local Bundles organization be redoubled to the end that a further increased flow of supplies can be maintained across the Atlantic. Because of the slackening of bombing activities over England in recent weeks, the impression may have been gained in some quarters on this side of the Atlantic that the need for supplies from America had lessened, but reports from Britain show the reverse to be true. Due to lack of food and materials, rationing has been increased. It has been impossible to rebuild the vast numbers of homes, hospitals and schools destroyed by bombings, which leaves untold thousands of men, women and children facing the winter in temporary emergency sheds and shelters, and with the anticipation of an even more frightful return of air raids over Britain as the days grow shorter, Warren chapter of Bundles for Britain, squarely faces the task that must be done to help. The British people in their distress count on this help as they have in the past, and the lo-

COMING OF FILM RECALLS CO. I ACTION IN WAR

Considerable of the history of Company I's service in the first world war is tied in with that of Sergeant Alvin York, whose daring deeds have been widely chronicled in print and now have been brought to the screen in a thrilling motion picture.

Under the caption, "Two Memorable Days," the local veteran of the action overseas has preserved the following accounts of the history-making October 7-8 of 23 years ago:

"At 2 o'clock in the morning of October 7, 1918, Company I of the 112th Inf., 28th Div., began an advance upon Hill 223, back of the town of Chetel Chechery. The company was led in the attack by two sergeants—Ralph N. Summerton and Earl R. Small. By 6 o'clock the company had advanced to a position through and back of the German lines and within 200 feet of their machine gun nests and rifle-men. It was here that Sgt. Small was wounded in the right forearm by an explosive bullet from a rifle. He was given first aid by Sgt. Summerton, and assisted to the rear by another comrade.

"They passed along a road where Sgt. Alvin C. York and other boys of the 82nd Div. lay all day of Oct. 7th, waiting to relieve the boys of the 28th Div. It was in the woods back of the hill which Company I had captured and held on Oct. 7th that Sgt. York, on Oct. 8th, accomplished the most extraordinary feat of individual gallantry of the World War, who, practically unassisted, captured 132 Germans (three of them were officers), took about 35 machine guns and killed no less than 25 of the enemy."

In conjunction with the local showing of the Sergeant York movie, George C. Sarvis, theatre manager, has extended an invitation to all Company I members who saw service on October 7, 1918, to be his guests at the theatre during the week's run of the picture, which starts October 24. These veterans will meet at the V. F. W. rooms at 7 p. m. Wednesday, October 29, to go to the theatre together.

Also in connection with the above movie, it is recalled by many that York lectured here in the First Presbyterian church on October 20, 1931, and modestly related to a large and enthusiastic audience the events which earned for him the Congressional Medal of Honor and many foreign decorations.

BUYERS ATTEND BRADFORD MEET

One of the best meetings ever held by the Purchasing Agents' Association took place at Bradford Friday evening with a large number of members throughout the district in attendance.

Chief speakers were F. Albert Hays, president of the National Association of Purchasing Agents and purchasing agent of the American Hide and Leather Company, of Boston, Mass., and Emmitt Bittner, purchasing agent of the Diamond Alkali Company of Pittsburgh. Mr. Bittner is at present in the Priorities Section of O. P. M. in Washington. Both gave fine talks on timely topics.

On Saturday the national directors of the Sixth District of the National Purchasing Agents' Association held their semi-annual meeting at the Emory Hotel in Bradford with directors present from Pittsburgh, Oil City, Bradford, Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, and Buffalo, N. Y.

INSURANCE MEN ENJOY MEETING OF BORO GROUP

Friday noon October 17th the Warren Chapter of the Erie Life Underwriters Association held a luncheon meeting at the "Blue and White" with seventeen members of the local organization present, with Mr. Rohrick of Corry as a guest, also C. J. Frey, manager of the Mutual Life agency at Erie and John L. Mallard of the same company as guests. Sari Flohr, president of the local chapter, presided.

The following underwriters were in attendance: Harry Schindl, H. R. Lauffenburger, F. J. McCoy, C. C. Winans, Wm. R. Simonsen, E. H. Ley, C. A. Erickson, LeRoy Stoddard, Denzil Murray, Peter Juliano, P. H. Goodwin, Wm. Stevenson, I. A. Schnell, H. H. Husted, William Korb, Fred Schuler, E. Taylor Judd.

Mr. Frey reported on activities of the Pennsylvania State Life Underwriters Association, including the consideration of the four-mill tax on life insurance proceeds left with insurance companies, a measure did not receive approval of the state legislators when up for vote in 1941.

For increased support of the state association, local dues were increased to $8.00 a year, from six dollars, in line with other groups throughout the state.

An advanced course in sales methods, estate analysis and business insurance was discussed, with likelihood that more than half the local underwriters will form a study group here. This course is available through the Research and Review Service, Inc., of Indianapolis.

Mr. Mallard gave an excellent presentation on business insurance on the lives of key men in business organizations.

TROOP 9 NAMED AS STANDARD IN SATURDAY MEET

Troop 9, sponsored by the First Methodist church with C. Ray Lewis as Scoutmaster, qualified as a "standard" troop in the Emergency Service Rally held Saturday at Beatty field. Due to a misunderstanding about the weather the attendance was small but the enthusiasm for the events were great and those who attended and participated declared it a good day of Scouting weather.

The events of the day consisted of knot tying, signaling, first aid, compass and water boiling. The following troops qualified in various events. Knot tying, troops 2 and 9; signaling, troop 9; first aid, troops 2, 4, 7, 8 and 9; stretcher drill, troops 2, 4, 7, and 9; communications, troops 2, 4, 8; Scout Uniform, troops 8 and 9.

The next emergency service activity will be a training course for Scout Leaders to be held November 1 at CSnautauqua Lake to be followed in February by a first aid contest between troops.

WE DON'T KNOW OUR STRENGTH

There is something going on in America—something so tremendous that few realize it at all.

The productive capacity of the country is increasing,
and increasing rapidly, after a long period of doldrums.
Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration, estimates that total production of the country today is close to 45 per cent higher than it was in the peak of 1929. The national income is estimated at around 93 billion dollars a year as compared with 76 last year. The entire scale of our national productive capacity is being rapidly scaled upward.

Nor does that necessarily mean that we are simply "building up to an awful letdown." It means that we could have done this any time, giving the incentive, and that we can continue to do it after the defense emergency is past if we will.

In 1917, Henderson surprisingly says, when the country
turned to arms production, there actually was no increase in the total productiveness of the country. That remained static. It was thought a good trick to keep it from falling, in view of the quick enforced shift from the aims of peace to those of war. But this generation have actually succeeded in increasing their productiveness almost 45 per cent. The answer is that in 1917 a greater percentage of national production went into war purposes. Thus the war materials of that time were turned out at the expense of other production, without increasing the whole.

But observe what is happening today. Cotton consumption is running at the rate of 11 million bales a year, a "phenomenal" figure. There is no lack of cotton, whose surplus has been a national problem for years. So cotton textile goods, for example, are likely to be produced and used on a scale we have not known,
no matter what the demands of defense industries.

A means must and will be found for the American people to turn to their own use the vastly increasing productive capacity they are now creating. The thing to do is to accept (nay, to welcome) that fact, and plan for it. Many leaders of both industry and government are already doing so.

We must set our eyes on goals which will be to the past as the Himalayas are to the Rockies.

A DROP IN THE BUCKET

German repudiation of promises and obligations has swept across the world in a flood in the past 10 years.
Any little drop added to that flood here and there is a small matter, but it is interesting to note the latest.

Just as the German armies were battering at the gates of Moscow, the German government stopped paying coupons on the Dawes and Young plan notes, payments which it has kept up even through the first two years of this war. These loans had only remote connection with the war debts of World War I. They were advances made to the Weimar Republic at a time when the United States had a genuine sympathy with the struggles of the German people in the post-war world, and wanted to help them keep their government afloat.

This repudiation was inevitable, and it is more than likely that partial payments were kept up in recent years simply to maintain a market for the securities and profit thereby. Nobody is surprised by the German announcement of "inability to pay," nor at the time chosen to make the announcement.

THE GROWING TERRITORIES

The increasing importance of the territories and insular possessions of the United States is well shown by a study recently completed by the Tax Institute. This demonstrated that in 1940 tax collections in the Territory of Hawaii totaled $21,000,000, or more than those of any of 11 states. Similar collections in Puerto Rico were $23,000,000, or more than those of 27 states. Alaskan collections of $2,000,000 were less than those of any state, but have doubled in 10 years.

These tax collections are a measure of growth of these territories and possessions and of their importance in a fiscal and business way. They suggest, since their trend is definitely upward, that their importance to U. S. economy and life will be even greater in the future than they have been in the past.

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

tors.

BY MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
Washington, Oct. 20.—Thoroughly alarmed by the frightening fact that almost 50 per cent of the men called for Army service have been physically or mentally unfit, the government has begun a nationwide rehabilitation program.

At a recent press conference,
President Roosevelt revealed only the Army's direct part in the program. Brig Gen. Lewis B. Hershey told him nearly 1,000,000 men had been rejected, but it was estimated 200,000 of these could be cured of their disabilities and then taken into camp. These will be retained under orders of the local selective service boards and will be visited by traveling teams of specialists. Where they decide a man's ailments are quickly remediable, he will be given care by local doctors and dentists at the government's expense.

President Roosevelt said he expected to promote a long-range program calling for co-operation by states, counties, cities and towns to remedy a condition in which possibly 50 per cent of all the population is unfit.

McNutt Moves In
One part of the rehabilitation program will be in charge of Paul V. McNutt, administrator of the Federal Security Agency, who, among many other duties, presides over health welfare and related activities. When he revealed figures on rejections by the Army, defects and the percentages were as follows: bad teeth, 20.9; bad eyes, 13.7; heart and artery diseases, 10.6; venereal diseases, 6.3; musculo-skeletal defects, 6.8; mental and nervous defects, 6.3; hernia, 6.2; ear defects, 4.6; bad feet, 4.0; lung troubles, 2.9; all other causes, 17.7.

Shortly after he studied these figures, McNutt appointed a commission of seven physicians and surgeons to examine the facts and to make recommendations. About six weeks ago they reported to him, urging among other things that hereafter if men are classified as unfit for military duty a distinction should be made if the defects are remediable.

When this is the case, they said,
the letter "should be placed after the man's classification index."
Also in the printed forms for reports by doctors for the local draft boards, space should be left for the examining doctors to state whether in their opinion defects were remediable or correctable. These things would serve as guides to authorities in Washington.

In cases where the men were deemed not easily curable, the doctors recommended that a space should be left in the reports for rejected men to state whether they were willing to undergo treatment to alleviate their defects, whether they were able to pay for such treatment. The commission recognized that many men probably could not afford to pay for surgical or dental care and therefore they suggested that federal financial aid might be necessary.

Program Incomplete
Out of the million young men already rejected, the President plans for the Army to take care of 200,000. McNutt will try to work out a plan to take care of most of the remaining 800,000 and the future rejects as the Army calls up men for examination. But many weeks will elapse before a program is fully evolved.

In the first place, the local selective boards all over the country will be asked to send to Washington fuller details about the re-

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—The "pere-grinations of the 20
mailbags" is causing an awful fuss in Washington and threatening to kick up one of the biggest squabbles of recent years
over Congressional franking privileges.

The facts of the case are far from clear, although the claims and counter-claims have filled column after column in the Congressional Record and local newspapers. This much seems to be true: a grand jury investigating foreign propaganda had before it for questioning Secretary-Treasurer Prescott Dettmer of two isolationist committees. In connection with the investigation, the jurors asked to see 20 bags of franked, unaddressed mail and speeches made by Congressmen or reprinted from the Congressional Record.

It developed that the bags had been removed from Dettmer's offices by a House Office Building mail truck, though on whose instructions it never has been made clear. The chase was on. The grand jury finally found the mail bags, eight of them dumped before one congressman's storage locker and the rest in the offices of another national isolationist committee.

HOW the bags got anywhere—
even to the offices of Dettmer in the first place—still is a mystery. All Congressmen, whose names were on the franked envelopes or on the speeches deny they had anything to do with it and the findings of the grand jury have not been disclosed.

However, as a result, there has been more view over franking privileges than at any time the oldest observer can remember.
The franking privilege—the right of having official mail go through postage free when it contains a printed facsimile of a Congressman's signature in the stamp corner—is one of the most jealously-guarded prerogatives of Congress.

The laws regarding it are, to say the least, peculiar. Although certain restrictions are set up by law, there is no penalty for its misuse other than the post office's right to collect postage where the law has been infringed. On the other hand, violations of the same right extended to government departments on official business mail are punishable by a $300 fine.

THERE is no law against a Congressman sending a bale of these franked envelopes to any person for addressing, although the contents must contain the line
"not printed at government expense."

As matter of fact, as Representative Fish, bitter administration fist from New York, pointed out, the law specifically provides that Congressmen may send packages of franked envelopes to persons for addressing and mailing.

On the other hand, Senator Barkley, majority leader, read another section of the law which says "it shall be unlawful for any person entitled under the law to the use of a frank to lend said frank or permit its use by any committee, organization or association or permit its use by any person for the benefit or use of any committee, organization, or association." It is unlawful, but there's no penalty provided.

Out of this comes the question of whether franked mail is being, or recently has been, used for delivery of illegal propaganda.

It is daily becoming apparent that in this little tussle are the elements of a good-sized tornado in the halls of Congress. Whether it will blow or not depends on facts undisclosed thus far.

Son of Former Warren Resident
Writes of Activities in Army

The following, submitted to the Times-Mirror for publication, will be of interest to many here: The older residents of the borough remember Captain Bill Bieble, but few will remember his son, Bob. The few around thirty will remember him. He, like his father, has chosen army for his career, but is quite the same as they were other days and it is much harder to advance from the ranks as days gone by. Bob enlisted in Fort Porter at Buffalo, N. Y., then was sent to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., where he spent quite a time on duty in the permanent guard company and also doing around the great casual barracks that was maintained there some time. In January of 1925 he was transferred to the then largest army post in the United States. Shortly after arrival at post he was made corporal in most famous infantry organization of the army, the Ninth Infantry, whose motto was very long for such a grand regiment. Up the line and which was in China during the Boxer rebellion of 1900. After spending thirteen years helping to demolish all of the cantonment barracks and build new stucco fire proof buildings to make up the new post of Fort Huachuca, Texas, and incidentally, make it the best and most picturesque army post in the United States and watching Randolph, Texas, grow to where it became the best air training center the United States, called the Point of the Air, and making part in the meantime, he was transferred on his own request to the Hawaiian Islands, where he again became a part of an grand regiment, the 35th Infantry of Schofield Barracks. For a little more than two years he stayed in this place called the Paradise of the Pacific and was made first sergeant in Company E of the 35th Infantry. Returning to the United States late in the fall of 1939 he was again luckily assigned to a great regiment, for he drew the famous Twentieth Infantry of Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo., and again was on the move. Soon it was sent to South Carolina, then to Georgia, Louisiana and then back to its station in Wyoming, but not for long. The next month it was again on the move, going to Minnesota and Camp Perry, O., for the big rifle matches in 1940. This gave 1st Sgt. Tribble the first chance in some 15 years to see his only brother still living in or near Warren, Pa., who was at that time a state policeman and now is radio patrolman of the Erie police force. This also gave Tribble a chance to visit a few old friends in Warren, including Fred Allen, George Jackson, of North Warren, who owned the Jackson grocery store, and also a couple of married ladies who used to be the Misses Ethel and Doris Anderson. All in all, he had the best vacation in three days that it had ever been his pleasure to enjoy in fifteen years. After returning to Camp Perry, O., his outfit returned to Fort Warren, Wyo. where he promptly volunteered to transfer to help organize a new infantry regiment. He was later transferred to Fort Greely, Kodiak, Alaska. First Sergeant Tribble wishes to extend his best wishes to all his friends in Warren and also his best wishes to friends of his father and to the whole borough of Warren. He also hopes that a few can find time to write.

Barnes

Barnes, October 16. — Mike Umbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palumbo, has been confined to his home for the past week on account of an infection in his ear, which for a few days seemed very serious. Mrs. G. R. Conquer and Mrs. L. Houston attended a meeting of the Warren County Federation of Women's Clubs at Warrenton, Wednesday. Robert Conquer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Conquer, has secured employment with the Glenn Manufacturing plant in Baltimore, Maryland, and left for that place yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Loveland, J. G. Mallery and Mrs. F. Loveland, of Corry, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Conquer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burns Sunday afternoon. Visitors at that home day evening were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis, of Mt. Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Swart, Lakewood, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Thompson, Clarion, were guests at the home of Mrs. Anna Chandler Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Ruth Irvine, of Mt. Jewett, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conquer Saturday evening, while Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lore, of Deane, made a trip to Warren. Mr. R. R. Hahn and children, Ed and Raymond, Jr., motored to City Saturday afternoon where they accompanied by members of the Hahn family to Aspinwall Sunday, visited Mr. Hahn, who is a patient in the veterans' hospital. Mrs. Ida Holden and Frank Hahn, of Cleveland, O., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hover and Mrs. W. Barnes Thursday afternoon. LITTLE CHANGE IS REPORTED IN CRASH VICTIMS

Warren General Hospital attendants today report little change in the condition of Anna Flow, widow and small son of Julius Adam Flow, of Pittsburgh, who died last Tuesday of injuries received when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad freight near their home.

Double funeral services in memory of Mr. Flow and a second son, John Frank, were held at St. John's Catholic church in Tidoute on Saturday morning, with interment in Tidoute cemetery. The rites were conducted by Father Joseph McTague, pastor, and the following acted as bearers for Mr. Flow: Metro, William, George, John and Aleck Teonchuk, brothers of Mrs. Flow, and Walter Hovanice. Bearers for the child have not been learned.

The third victim of the accident, Miss Catherine Teonchuk, of Pittsburgh R. D., was buried in the Catholic cemetery at Columbus on Friday following funeral services held in St. Mary's church at that place by Father Andrew M. A. Pankov. Bearers were George Seckerak, Nick and Mike Savko, Walter Hovanice and Ed Kovach. Those who came from out of town for services of the accident victims included Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bulk, of Erie; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chamberlain, Plymouth, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. William Teonchuk, Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Nat Manners, Wyandotte, Mich.

Industry Centers Attacked

ing desperately to pinch off the iron wedges driven into their lines, but had failed to do so.

The news agency indicated, but did not say directly that the positions reported taken by the Germans were in the outer ring.

During fighting for the positions, which were characterized as especially strong, the Germans captured 7,000 troops and DNEB said.

Military advisers declared the weather on the central front was especially severe, but said that mud, rain and snow had failed to halt the eastward drive of German mechanized forces.

Developments in the Moscow sector partly overshadowed the German high command's announcement that Taganrog, on the north shore of the Sea of Azov, had been captured after savage house-to-house fighting.

Seizure of Taganrog, which has a peace-time population of 120,000, represented an advance of 65 miles from Mariupol, fall of which was announced by the Germans October 7. Capture of the city cut the important railway between Rostov to Kharkov in the heart of the Donets basin and thereby placed a further strain on the Russian defenders of that industrial area.

Equally important is the threat to Rostov itself, fall of which would open the way for the Germans to swing south toward the Caucasus region and the vital oil fields between the Black and Caspian seas.

Observers in Berlin immediately began to speculate whether the desire for oil would impel the Germans to attempt a winter push into the Caucasus or whether they would call a halt at Rostov.

Answers To Cranium Crackers

1. First rule of first aid is "call the doctor."

2. Treat burns with tannic acid burn jelly, or fresh tannic acid 5 per cent solution or paste solution of baking soda on clean gauze, or a good burn ointment in the case of slight burns.

3. To stop arterial bleeding, use pressure with fingers or hand at pressure points (1) in front of ear or temple bleeding; (2) inner arm between shoulder and elbow for hand or arm; (3) in groin against pelvic bone for foot, thigh or leg; (4) on neck fingers forward just touching windpipe, thumb around back of neck for cut throat; (5) behind collarbone at side of neck, pressing downward on first rib, for shoulder or arm pit. Tourniquet applied between bleeding and heart, and loosened every 15 minutes, also curbs bleeding.

4. For fainting place patient on back with head low feet raised. Loosen tight clothing, give plenty of air, applying smelling salts, ammonia or a handkerchief, or little cold water in face.

5. In case of frost bite, rubbing with snow is bad, as bruised tissues are likely to be infected. Gently cover frozen part with hand or other body surface until it thaws and circulation is re-established. Cold water or cool air are helpful or wrap frozen part in extra clothing.

HIKERS LIKE BEAVERS

Eighteen persons including three newcomers faced the uncertain weather yesterday afternoon and joined the Allegheny Hiking Club's fourth trip of the season. The group drove to a point on Route 337 about six miles from Warren where cars were parked, and the hikers walked through woods roads between the head of Sill Run and Morrison Run following down a tributary stream leading south into Elk Run, then turning west returning on roads over the ridge to the starting point. Between six and seven miles were covered in this hike, and the party enjoyed the opportunity to observe the beaver dams in Elk run, where considerable work has been done recently by these industrious animals.

Plans are being made for the Buffalo Hiking Club joint outing with the Allegheny Hiking Club next Sunday, and these will be announced in the Times-Mirror this week.

OBITUARY

A. W. PETERSON

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Monah Lutheran church at Ludlow for A. W. (King) Peterson, of Kane, one of its founders. Dr. Felix V. Hanson, of Jamestown, N. Y., will officiate and interment will be made in the Ludlow cemetery.

Mr. Peterson, who moved to Kane from Ludlow about nine years ago, died in the Kane Sunmit Hospital early Saturday morning after an illness of several months. He was born in Sweden and came to Ludlow when he arrived in America 55 years ago. He was outdoor supervisor for the J. C. Curtis Leather Company for a time and then established a general store, continuing its operation until 1932. He was Ludlow post master for 15 years and established the only steamship ticket office in this part of the state. He was unofficial undertaker at Ludlow before the passage of state laws regulating this business, and his store was used as a dentist office, barber shop and consultation headquarters for the many years he operated it.

Besides his wife, Henrietta Block Peterson, he leaves the following sons and daughters: Sam Peterson, Pittsburgh; Ben Peterson, Ludlow; Lloyd Peterson, son; Ernest Peterson, Russell; Mrs. Linnea Sarafianos and Mrs. Doris Doyle, Brooklyn, N. Y.; also 14 grandchildren; a brother and a sister, August Peterson, Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. Mathilda Tunall of Kane.

MRS. MATHILDA RUNDQUIST

Funeral services were held at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Henderson & Lincoln chapel in Jamestown, N. Y., in memory of Mrs. Mathilda Rundquist, 424 Windsor street, that city, who died Friday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leon H. Johnson, West Fifth avenue, Warren.

Mrs. Rundquist, 91-year-old widow of Andrew Rundquist, was spending several months here with her daughter. She leaves also a sister and a brother, Mrs. Fred Lindholm, of Jamestown, and Albert Johnson, of Olean, N. Y.; and two grandchildren, Gretchen C. and Martin H. Johnson, of Warren. Mrs. Rundquist was born in Sweden and came to Jamestown when about 21 years of age, residing there ever since. She was a member of the First Mission church of that city.

CALVIN DAY

Funeral services for Calvin Day, last Warren county Civil War veteran, were held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the Peterson Funeral Home, with Rev. J. H. Clemens officiating.

Burial was made at Centerville where the G. A. R. ritual was carried out at the grave by the following members of the V. F. W.: Earl Small, commander; J. R. Allen, senior vice commander; George Schweitzer, junior vice commander; Homer Fitch, officer of the day; J. H. West, chaplain; Harold Mathis, bugler. These men and Ernest Rockhill were the pall bearers.

Those who attended from out of town included Mrs. Ada Sampson, and L. D. Sampson, Jr., of Titusville.

W. N. HUTCHINGS

A cable was received here on Sunday telling of the death of William Nathaniel Hutchings, husband of Audrey Allen Hutchings, at their home in Paget, Bermuda. Interment took place in the Warwick parish churchyard. Besides his wife, Mr. Hutchings leaves one daughter, Meredith.

JAMES MCCLELLAN

James McClellan, 80, long a resident of Kelleetville, died suddenly last night at eight o'clock at his home. Mr. McClellan will be remembered as a popular craftsman in the days of rafting in the Clarion river. Funeral arrangements are not completed and a more complete obituary will be printed later.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for the many kind expressions of sympathy extended us at the time of our recent bereavement. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and for the use of cars.
Mr. and Mrs. Peter Teonchuk and Family.

Blue and White Scores 7-0 Triumph Over Franklin High

Block Punt In Third Quarter To Set Up Only Score In Game

Playing on a muddy, slippery ridion at Franklin Saturday, the Warren High School Dragons turned in one of their nicest football performances to the season though they could only beat a determined Nursery eleven, 7-0.

Always dangerous, and at times moving for substantial gains which would force the Dragon defense to tighten, the Hartman charges fought on even terms with the Blue and White until late in the third stanza when a block-punt set up the only score of the contest.

Ted Black recovered the punt which was blocked by a host of Warren linemen, on the Franklin 5 yard stripe. Sharp made four yards on the first play through tight guard, but Mike Bleech, a substitute Warren halfback failed to gain at the center of the line. Sharp's toss to Frank Peterson missed and then Bleech bucked the center for a first down on the Nursery three.

On the first play from this point White gained two more and then went over for the counter. He also hit the line to convert, and the margin of victory was made. In the fourth quarter after Warren tried to get into a scoring position once again, Tony Marasco blocked another Franklin punt and Ted Black caught the ball taking it over the goal line from the Franklin 22. But the play was called back to that spot where the ball was awarded to Warren and the score nullified.

Franklin never made a serious bid to score, though as the half came to a close they aroused fans in both sides with a long 32-yard pass play. Frank to Maslak, which went from the Nursery 30 to the Dragon 38-yard line. Before the inspired Nursery eleven could take advantage of the opportune position, the whistle blew, ending the first half.

From that point on as had been the case before Franklin was case backed up to its own goal line throughout most of the contest recording only two first downs, and one of these by penalty on the part of the winners.

The Dragons, in conquering their sixth foe of eight with which they have done battle this fall, played good ball though handicapped by slippery mud and deep puddles at frequent spots on the Franklin grid.

Ted Black, Albert Salerno, Dick Eick, Bobby Sedon and Mike Bleech all stood out as did the watchmen twins and Leon Christian, who threw Nursery backs for losses time and again.

Next week the Dragons will make their final home appearance of the campaign against the strengthened Bradford Ovis, when Coach Bob Flue's charges will attempt to average last year's 13-12 loss to the Leidigmen.

Always a good game, a large attendance is expected to welcome the Ovis and watch a contest that looks to be one of the best on the Dragon slate.

GRID RECORDS BEING SET BY CHICAGO BEARS

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(P)—The National Football League's record book will be as obsolete as last year's atlas unless some of the pro circuit's better minds contrive a defense to stop the touchdown-mad Chicago Bears.

The Bears, averaging just under 44 points a game, continue to show power, deception and speed such as pro football never has seen before. The champions, who already have set new marks for most yards in a single game (612) and most yards by passes in a game (376), need only to maintain this pace to rewrite the book.

Yesterday they rolled up 20 first downs in belting the Detroit Lions, 49 to 0, only one short of the league record for one game. This was the Bears' fourth straight victory and left them and the New York Giants as the only undefeated teams.

New York, held to a 7-7 stalemate for two periods, snapped back with 21 points in the second half to whip Pittsburgh, 28 to 7 for five wins in a row. The Steelers outgained the Giants but could not meet the New Yorkers' diversified attack.

Green Bay and Washington clung to the heels of the sectional leaders Green Bay eked out a 17 to 14 victory over Cleveland in Don Hutson's last minute field goal Washington likewise rallied in the waning minutes, went 36 yards on three passes for the winning touchdown over Philadelphia, 21 to 17.

It was quite apparent today that the sectional titles would be decided in the next meetings between the Packers and Bears and Washington and New York.

Brooklyn virtually bowed out of the eastern race yesterday by losing to Jimmy Conzelmann's Chicago Cardinals, 20 to 6. The Cards outplayed the Dodgers for their first league victory.

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Oct. 20.—(P)—Tommy Harmon and Jenn Kimbrough didn't do much more than pat each other encouragingly on their shoulder pads in their professional football debut yesterday, but they may have done something vastly important for the struggling American League.

When 25,355 fans paid their way into Yankee Stadium to see the two famous All-Americans perform and, incidentally, to watch the Columbus Bulls and the New York Americans struggle to a 7-7 tie, it marked the first time the ambitious second major league had drawn really important money and cut seriously into the patronage of the prosperous National League.

This, of course, was what the new owner of the Americans, William Cox, was counting on when he had Kimbrough and Harmon $1,500 each to get out there and fight. It may have marked the turning point that every new league must have. A National League game between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh at the Polo Grounds drew only 21,604, not all paid.

It may have been only a one-day wonder, but for one afternoon, at least you can bet that the National League megamats had a headache.

After the game, in which he scored his team's touchdown on a miffed referee from Kimbrough, Harmon said he didn't know whether he could be able to try it again next Sunday, when the Americans play Buffalo here. The great Michigan star still is determined to be a radio announcer and he won't know until the middle of the week whether he can be spared from his duties at the mike.

There is no doubt in Kimbrough's mind. He thoroughly liked it. The big, smiling Texan carried the ball nine times, and simple arithmetic reveals he banked something over $160 every time he tucked the ball beneath his arm. John gained a net of only 26 yards in those nine tries, and once he was tossed for a 12-yard loss. But he looked good on his blocking.

Harmon got hold of the ball 12 times and gained a net of 34 yards against the tough Columbus defense.

Buckeye Back Sets Boilermakers Boiling

Dick Fisher (No. 37), Ohio State halfback surges around right end for a first down in last moment from the Buc-eyes game against the Purdue Boilermakers at Columbus.

Obituary note. Red Jackets die and are buried at Akron. Financial services very complete. Well may be it wasn't quite that bad, but the local riots met up with a really great football machine yesterday and credit must go where it is deserved. Every Jacket played hard ball but they just couldn't match the Awnings. They made mistakes, and some were costly, but it wasn't a case of throwing the towel away, simply a performance of an exceptional club against a good one. Not quite good enough Red Jacket eleven. Akron's backs were the best this agent has ever seen in professional ball, elusive and fast. Warren had a hard time stopping them, though the Awnings were outwitted by the locals. Del Fessler gets this corner a vote for being the greatest all-round quarterback in this tri-state area, and was seen a lot of them. You may have heard by now that the bus trip was a good reason why Warren lost. It was not, though a ride over that distance doesn't help any club. A couple of local players were sick played anyhow, but that wasn't completely the fault of the bus. And this writer aims to take nothing away from Akron, they played superb ball, deserved to win; and all we hope is that Warren may play them again next year.

The Dragons finally wrestled with the weatherman Saturday, but even at this late stage of the game they managed to win the decision from the boy who brings the rain. In the first place, not having been tested on a sloppy and slippery grid, it was not known what the Leidigmen could do. But what they did, no mystery was only to turn in a remarkable appearance, against a better team than Franklin is credited with having, and the Dragons hung onto the pigskin in creditable fashion, punting, passing and running with finesse and not fumbling very frequently, their only once really making any difference when the opponents recovered the ball. Mike Bleech must be given a bushel of credit for the victory, for the junior back stuck with the force of dynamo as he piled up valuable and consistent yardage during his play in the game. Bleech, who favors a weak knee, was the outstanding runner of the afternoon, but Bobby Sedon pressed closely behind for those honors. Ted Black played his usual good game of ball defensively, and the entire Dragon line turned in one of its best performances of the season, being alert, changing low and hard and tackling determinedly to stop the foe.

Quickies. . . Jamestown's mighty Red and Green almost won their third straight Saturday at Elmira, but the cards were stacked against them. . . With only forty seconds remaining in the game, and the Moonmen ahead 6-0, Elmira pushed across touchdown and extra point to nose them out. . . A heartbreaker to lose. . . Boxing must be going back to the "Dark Ages" with what some of the foremost scoundrels in the business these days being colored fighters. . . What with Ray Robinson, Bob Montgomery, Charley Butler, Ossie Harris and of course, Joe Louis, the Negro race could easily gain possession of every title in the game. . . and may. . . You've often heard of bowling alleys referred to as "sidewalks". . . Well, eight old alleys in Chicago were torn out recently and now they are actually sidewalks surrounding a building in Lincolnwood, Illinois, and they do make good sidewalks.

The word "turnpike" originated from the early American custom of blocking toll roads with pikes or poles. When the toll was paid the pike was turned aside.

Factory sales in the United States in 1940 totaled 3,692,325 passenger cars and 777,026 motor trucks.

To Edgar C. Quimby, Lillian M. Quimby and Theo W. Reuting, or their legal representatives, or whoever may be the holder or holders of the mortgage hereinafter mentioned.

Take notice that on September 28, 1941, Nellie A. Smith presented her petition setting forth that she is the owner for and during her natural life, of all that certain piece of land situated in Eldred Township, Warren County, Pennsylvania, being part of Tract No. 99 and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a post, the southwest corner of lands heretofore conveyed to James H. Carr thence by the south line thereof south 57 rods to a post, the southeast corner of said Carr's land thence south 37 rods 43 rods to a post; thence by residue of tract north 87° west 156 rods to a post; thence north 3° east 43 rods to the place of beginning, and containing 50 acres of land be the same more or less.

That an unsatisfied mortgage upon said premises remains of record in the Recorder's Office of said Warren County, given by James H. Carr to Edgar C. Quimby and Lillian M. Quimby, dated January 8, 1902, and recorded in Mortgage Book 26, page 376 for $400 and interest, that said Edgar C. Quimby and Lillian M. Quimby sold and assigned said Bond and Mortgage to Theo W. Reuting sometime prior to January 22, 1903, and that said assignment is not of record, that a period of twenty-one years has elapsed since said mortgage became due and payable and no payment to apply thereon has been made within said period, and praying for satisfaction thereof.

Whereupon, said Court ordered this notice served upon the parties first above mentioned, requiring them to appear in said Court at 10 A. M., Oct. 28, 1941, to answer said petition, and to show cause why the proper decree should not be granted, and said mortgage satisfied.

Is it Love? by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

YESTERDAY: Sue Ellen Fairhope is not quite her usual self tonight, because Riv Moore, her fiancé, just has told her that their wedding must be put off six months. And besides, a young soldier from Camp Shelby named Johnny Harris has turned up, and although he is a northerner, and Sue Ellen does not like northerners, he has a strangely direct gaze and a quiet self-possession that make an effect. Johnny is with Deedora Walter.

Chapter Five

"Poor Riv"

HARRIET and Deedora were the first to leave the room. Ginny and Sue Ellen followed them toward the big main room. The men sauntered over to meet them. Riv was quite the handsomest man in the group. Every girl looked at Riv first, to get the smile of his approval, and then she heaved a little sigh. They all envied her because she had Riv.

She'd keep him, too, thought Sue Ellen. Riv meant security for herself and her family, a suitable marriage. Riv had said that this afternoon. A Moore and a Fairhope—a fine inheritance for their children.

"Mighty sober tonight," said Riv, and frowned.

She would keep Riv, she reminded herself, and the way to "Nothing, Why?" He moved away from her and set the car in motion.

"Poor Riv," she thought after she was in the big crowded bed, with the lights out and the November wind blowing the stiff lace curtains at the wide windows. "Why should I blame Riv for being what he is? I'm marrying Riv in the spring." She turned over and sighed. "Tomorrow I'll have to plan some way to keep this place together for Aunt Car and Aunt Pleas."

"I hoped I'd be taken care of when I married in December. Now with my wedding postponed until spring—she drifted off to sleep with her thoughts a jumble of rebuffing Riv's indifference, trying to understand it herself... drifting off to sleep trying to push out of her thoughts the memory of Aunt Car's face when she spoke of a lover lost for over twenty years."

There was something she had never had and could not understand. Would the thin grey-eyed man who was John Harris's son figure in her future? How ridiculous—how insane to think about that.

She was marrying Riv in June. Suddenly the marriage to Riv lost reality in spite of her. This was such a different world, with men in uniform swarming everywhere and threat of war in the air, and men like Johnny Harris—she went keep Riv was to be gay and popular. She let her lids drop over her eyes and then lifted them to look directly into Riv's looking down at her. It was a trick Ginny used, and she did not draw away but encouraged the class, as she moved to the thumbs. She could keep Riv easily. His eyes had lost their indifference, their tendency to rove about the room, and were fastened upon her. "Lord, but you're beautiful," he whispered.

"Lord, but you're beautiful," Riv whispered.

The dance lasted until two and she did not see Johnny Harris again until they were leaving. Ginny suggested that they drive over to a nearby town for hamburgers and coffee. Johnny Harris and Deedora were already on their way to Deedora's long black car.

"What's their hurry?" asked Toby.

"He's in the army now," said Riv with a sarcastic laugh. The remark did not go over. Even Ginny tossed her dark head and said: "Well, what about it? Soon you'll be answering a bugle call yourself, Riv Moore. Isn't your number in the first draft?"

"What are you talking about?" demanded Riv.

Toby waved toward them with his soft hat on the back of his head. "What's all the excitement?" he asked.

Harriet Nettleton laughed. Sue began to sing: "He's got to get up—He's got to get up in the morning."

Ginny gave her a little push. She tucked her hand through Riv's arm and said: "How you Riv to go off to war?"

Riv gave a hard little laugh and caught Sue Ellen by the coat sleeve. "You'll see."

The lights of the other cars followed them for a while and then turned off down a side road. "Aren't we going with the crowd?" asked Sue Ellen.

Breaking The News

THE Country Club dance was on Saturday. Sunday morning Sue Ellen went to church with Aunt Car and Aunt Pleas. The aunts never missed a service at the little Presbyterian church where three generations of Fairhopes had worshipped.

Sue Ellen wore the suit she had intended as her going-away suit. A pastel wool, a soft golden yellow. She had kept it carefully folded in the box in which it had come from Memphis, but today she carelessly took it out and wore it.

Ginny Fairchild was not at church, but she saw Ginny and young Doctor Warren in the drug store as she passed. They were talking earnestly together as they sat at one of the drug store tables and she saw Riv's car at the curb and Deedora's long roadster pulled up beside it. After that she looked straight ahead, but her heart beat anxiously and her cheeks were flushed.

Aunt Pleas was quicker than Aunt Car and her glance rested on Riv's car and then she said: "Riv does that Yankee girl hang about here, Sue Ellen?"

Sue Ellen shrugged and made no reply and caught Aunt Car's sympathetic glance bent upon her. "I met your northern friend last night," she said carelessly. "Incidentally, he's the man who tried to speak to me in the drug store."

Aunt Pleas looked shocked and Aunt Car murmured: "He recognized you because you looked like me when I was young. His father had shown him a picture of me. He also said that he has seen your picture in some paper."

"Probably the announcement of your wedding in December in the Memphis paper," said Aunt Pleas. "Only I'm not being married in December," said Sue Ellen flatly.

"Not married—with your clothes loaded?"

"Probably no difference. The Colonel's plan. Riv and I must wait until spring."

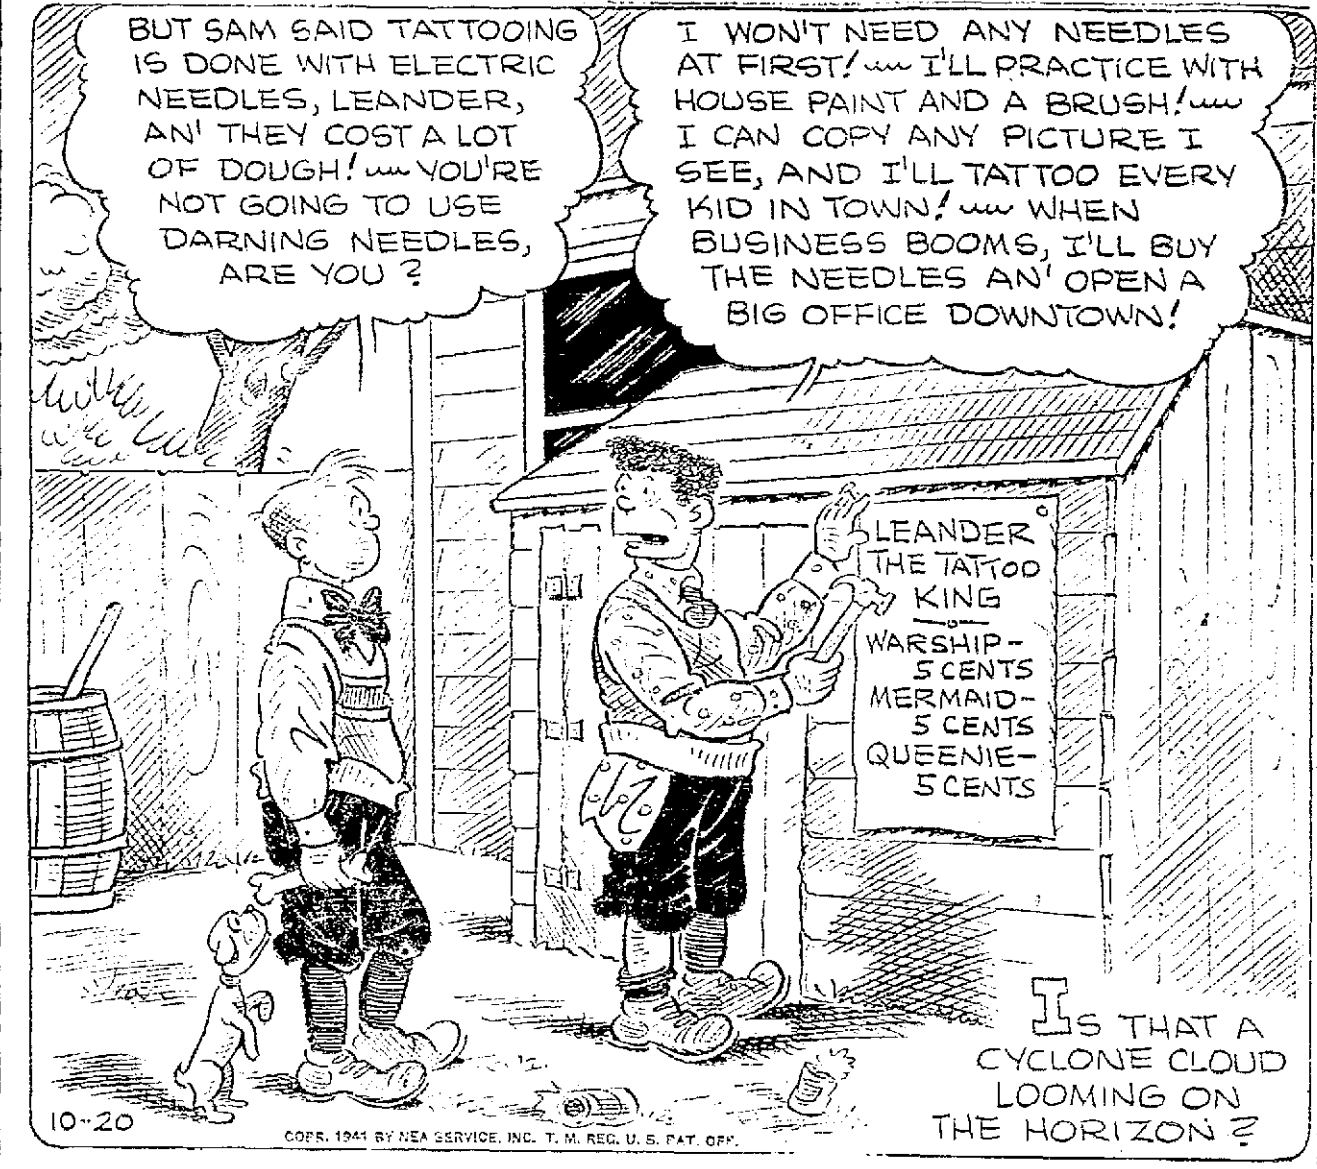

Neither aunt made any comment, but Sue Ellen could read their indignation in their interchange of glances.

"Riv disliked your Yankee," she said by way of diverting attention from her own startling statement.

"It's what you think that's important, isn't it?" asked Aunt Car quietly and turned to chat with her sister about the sermon.

DEATH OF SELECTEE IS TERMED SUICIDE

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The body of Private Paul F. Snyder, 22, attached to the Carlisle Medical Barracks, was found today in the cellar of his home at nearby Houserville, with a bullet wound in his chest.
Coroner Charles Scheckler of Centre county, recorded the death as a suicide. The soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Snyder, who found the body after hearing a shot, turned over to authorities a note left by Snyder, saying "this is the best way out."
Snyder was inducted into the army in the Selective Service system last May and was on a week-end leave.

OBITUARY

MRS. S. H. MCINTOSH
Mary McIntosh, wife of S. H. McIntosh, died at her home 628 West Main street, Sheffield, at 9:55 o'clock last evening following a long illness. Funeral services will be held from Borden's Funeral Home at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Fred Smith, Free Methodist pastor at that place, and with interment in the Sheffield cemetery.
Mrs. McIntosh was born in Germany on June 22, 1879 and came to this country at the age of two years. She had been a resident of Sheffield for the past 27 years.
Besides her husband, she leaves the following children: Clarence, at home; Mrs. Beulah Zimmerman and Robert McIntosh, Jamestown, N. Y.; Sherman, of Buffalo, N. Y.; and William, of Erie; also two granddaughters; the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Sophia Kitchen and Fred L. Feldman, Pennsylvania; William Feldman, Brockway; Mrs. Anna Johnson and David W. King, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Joe, of New Salem.
The Japanese foreign office in Tokyo announced receipt of word from Yoshitsugu Takawa, Japanese ambassador to Russia, that the staff of the Japanese embassy in Moscow together with other diplomats accredited there were proceeding to Kuibyshev, 540 miles airline east and slightly south of Moscow.
In addition to the troops declared moving westward from Siberia to join the battle for Moscow, there was a report in London that besieged Leningrad forces of Marshal Klementi Voroshilov might soon attempt to go to the rescue of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's central-front forces in the Kalinin region.

Added Inducement to Secure Votes For Favorite Babies by Merchant and Subscription Methods done between now and November 23rd. The last few weeks of the race may be definitely won or lost. More than a hundred babies are very much in the running. Positions are changing every 24 hours and no one can tell even what the results will be when the next list is published.

"Win a fortune for baby"—rude at "Baby Vote" stores.
Pushed down and then back in the electric chair, the dapper one-time Philadelphia spaghetti salesman made several efforts to arise. His words of protest became inaudible just before Executioner James Lee Wilson pulled the switch at 12:22 a. m. (EST) to atone for drowning of Ratafole Caruso, a cripple insured by the Petrillo mob for $15,000.
Death came to Herman in two minutes just as it did six months ago to Cousin Paul, a mild-mannered tailor who trod the same path as a ringleader in the weird series of murders that brought dozens of arrests in an investigation spreading from Philadelphia to Delaware, New Jersey and New York.
Little Paul slumbered soundly until execution time and then stroled unconcernedly into the death chamber. Herman, however, spent his last hours in frenzied prayer, in gibbering protestations that he should not die, and was held up by two guards for the 40-second march from his cell to the chair.
Willie Jones, Pittsburgh negro occupying an adjoining cell, shouting encouragement to Petrillo during his last hours and started singing hymns as guards arrived for the condemned man, the continued singing long after the execution. Jones was to walk the last mile with Petrillo for a hold-up slaying, but got a last-minute respite for a mental examination.

Petrillo Pays With Life For Part In Ring

wealthy executed him at Rockview prison early today.
"You don't want to witness the death of an innocent man," begged 32-year-old Herman Petrillo while guards strapped him down. "Give me a chance to prove my innocence. I want to see the governor."

WE INVITE

Advance Arrangements For Funeral Service
The management of the Lutz Funeral Home believes that no family should spend more for a funeral at the time of bereavement than they would have been willing to spend three months before or later.
That is why we invite advance arrangements. Made when minds are normal, they are more apt to prove satisfactory at a later date. We have many such arrangements locked away in our safe. Each will be fulfilled exactly as planned.
Without obligation you are invited to call for a frank discussion of funeral service, or to send for a copy of our free booklet.

THE FACTS ABOUT FUNERAL PRICES

Notation: The cost of 256 caskets, 1 adult funeral conducted by LUTZ FUNERAL HOME
32 Funerals cost $100 or less

BIDDING LIGHT ON STOCK MART

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bidding for stocks was hesitant today, but demand was sufficient to keep the market generally on its feet.
An assortment of industrials, rails and utilities managed to tack on small plus marks at the start and in the majority of instances, these were retained. Dealings were sluggish throughout, however, and numerous issues were unchanged or a shade lower.

"Kind Lady" Reaches Dress Rehearsal Stage And Box Office Regulations Are Announced

"Kind Lady", 29th public production of the Warren Players, scheduled to open on Thursday evening, is pure drama, destined to keep local audiences on the very edges of their seats. It would be a bit awkward, however, to be on the edge of someone else's seat or to perch on no seat at all. For that reason, Evelyn McMichael, chairman of the box office, announces an "open season" for making reservations.

Tomorrow evening all are urged to telephone or call in person at the Woman's Club for the purpose of selecting their seats for the performances on Thursday or Friday. The box office will be open on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p. m., Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Thursday from 9 a. m. until curtain time. Calls may be made to 776 by phone or in person at box office headquarters just inside the door of the Woman's Club. Members and season ticket holders are urged to make their reservations early and others are reminded that tickets may be purchased at the door.

The opening of the box office brings opening night into the limelight and the cast of any play re-

NOT A GOOD PLAYER? BRIDGE PREXY TAKES TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority

Nearly a year ago Col. Robert J. Gill accepted the presidency of the American Contract Bridge League. He said then he loved the game of bridge but was not a good bridge player, and in accepting the office of president of the league, he wanted that point clearly understood.

Well, a lot of people wish that "Bob" had lived up to that state-

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your grocer to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to wear your money back.

INSULIN - the Stoker

INSULIN is a ferment-like substance manufactured in the pancreas, which normally acts as a "stoker" in utilizing the sugar-fuel of the body.

Insulin has made diabetes controllable, but the earlier it is controlled, the more easily it can be controlled.

When this chemical "factory" body of ours harbors a slacker pancreatic system, then sugar that should be converted into fuel and energy remains in the blood, in raw or "unburned" state, and is finally thrown off by the kidneys. This excessive sugar has a degenerative action on some of the important organs, and leaves the patient hungry and thirsty, even though he has plenty of "fuel."

When INSULIN is given under the supervision of a physician who has analyzed the special requirements of the patient, this sugar is properly assimilated and converted into food and fuel. INSULIN acts as a substitute for the slacker pancreatic system, and maintains a balanced sugar metabolism.

Diabetes occurs at all ages, but most commonly in middle life. Luxurious living and sedentary habits are often important factors in the cause of diabetes, and obesity seems to be present at the onset of a great many cases.

To relax nerves and restore energy Budget your time to include daily Baths

No matter how hurried your day, you cannot afford to neglect health. For your own well-being take time for a daily bath.

Doctors say the daily bath is first aid to a tired body. Your bath relaxes tensed nerves, helps restore energy. In short, refreshes you all over!

A few carefree minutes in the tub means so much to your health. Today—and every day—enjoy a stimulating bath yourself.

► Daily baths make you feel better—and others notice it, admirably!

Jack, casting the ace of spades, then sent the ace of diamonds. When the ace of diamonds fell from the South hand, Bowie led a trump to dummy's jack and led the ace of clubs, discarding the high diamond from his own hand. Next he played the king of clubs, discarding the six of hearts, and discarding the remaining three hearts to the queen, jack and ten of diamonds, leaving seven odd.

GOD'S GIFT

I found a leaf on my door-step, A leaf of beauty rare, It lay as if it were placed there With the very utmost care.

I knew that it had a message For me that October day, That all of life is beautiful, The clouds and the suns bright day.

That leaf of varied colors, Of red and green and gold, As in my hand I held it, Such beauties did unfold.

No human art could paint it, 'Twas a Master Hand, I know, Who used His brush and palette, And sent it to me below.

Life, too, has its varied colors, Some days are bright and fair, Some days the clouds bring rain drops, And they trickle here and there.

So the green in the leaf was to tell me, We need the dark days too, To appreciate the sunshine, And the colors of brighter hue.

I placed that leaf in my Bible, As a gift sent from above, I know it was sent that morning, To tell me of His love.

If approved, a rehabilitation bill carrying an appropriation will then go to the House Appropriations Committee.

The big difference between the 200,000 deemed remediable and thus fit for future military service, and the balance of 800,000 will be this: the former will be subject to orders by the selective service boards and will have to undergo remedial treatment. The others will not be forced to take such treatment even if a federal aid bill is passed. If they take the free treatment offered them, it will be voluntary.
